FOR WHOSE BENEFIT
A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLD'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish - finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and molten STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein; thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.
Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn round in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, dries out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.
We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50; a $900 Piano for $297 50; a $1200 Piano for $375.50; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occassionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

FUN OPENING SAFES.

Some Incidents Showing How Troubles Arise from Little Causes.

"There are many amusing incidents connected with our business," said a safe manufacturer one day to a Boston reporter. "It is to be expected that in the ordinary course of events circumstances will arise when a safe will have to be opened by an expert. Locks, like any other piece of mechanism, are not infallible. The best of them are liable to fail at times through some slight defect in manufacturing, same as the mainspring of the most valuable watch may give out unexpectedly.

"Not long ago a firm wanted a man to fix their safe. It was open, but they could not shut the door far enough to throw the bolts. The man went to the place and after a brief examination saw a penny resting on one of the bottom flanges. Taking this off the door shut and locked all right. I forget how much it cost the firm to have the man go to their place and pick up that little coin, but it was enough to prevent its being repeated, no doubt. A similar case happened recently. We were sent for at about the close of business hours to see what was the trouble with one of our safes. The bolts would not throw far enough to turn the lock. The result was the finding of a cloth button from a lady's dress in the lower bolt hole.

"Some years ago we had delivered a new set of vault doors for a bank about two hundred miles away. Just before they were ready to occupy their new quarters we had a telegram to send a man at once. The bolts of the outer door would not throw far enough to lock it. Our man went, and this is what he found: The bank officers had fitted in a board for the tread of the vestibule, but had omitted to bore holes in it for the throw of the bolts. An auger and ten minutes' labor made everything all right, but made that piece of board a rather extravagant luxury.

"Epicurean like, we have reserved the best for the last. For fear that this may reach the eyes of the hero of the incident I will substitute for his correct address that of Calais, Me. It was not a thousand miles from there. The letter read to come at once and open a safe, as there were important documents wanted for immediate use. With his kit of tools a man took the next train and arrived on the following evening. It proved to be an old fashioned safe with a large key lock. 'There,' said the man, 'is the safe. The lock has been working harder and harder for weeks, until now I am locked out. I am in a hurry to have it opened. Never mind the damage if you will only break into it in short order.'

"Our expert took the key and tried it, but it refused to work. He then took a small wire and picked out half a thimbleful of dirt and lint from the key, tried it again and a better working lock was never seen. 'How much is your bill?' As this involved a trip to and from Calais of about 600 miles, and time and expense in proportion, he replied $40. Taking a roll of bills from his pocket he said: 'That is satisfactory on conditions. Does any one in the place know your business here?' The reply was, 'No one.' 'All right, then; get out by the next train and keep mum, for I would gladly pay $100 rather than have any of my friends know that I was fool enough to go to Boston for a man to pick the dirt out of my key.'"—Boston Courier.

A Phantom Postman.

For weeks a remarkable phantom or illusion has attracted attention at Parkersburg, W. Va. On dark nights the figure of a phantom postman has been seen clearly outlined on one of the windows of the city postoffice. The form and features of the phantom are as distinct as life. It appears to be in the act of distributing mail. The apparition has been seen only when no one was in the building, and it cannot be accounted for. Hundreds have seen it, and among the superstitious it has created alarm. It reads the postal cards.—Exchange.

Where "Counterpane" Comes From.

Counterpane is a corruption of counterpoint, from the Latin cul, cita (a wadded wrapper, a quilt). When the stitches were arranged in patterns it was called cul, cita, puncta, which in French became courtepointe, corrupted into contre pointe, counterpoint where point is pronounced "poyn" corrupted into "pane."—Dry Goods Chronicle.

Bound to Win.

Boston Girl—Papa, Mr. Toney is coming here to-night to press his suit with you.

Boston Papa—Does the young man appreciate what an alliance with our house means?

Boston Girl—Yes, papa, but Albert says he is bound to have me at any price.—New York Ledger.

Spectacles in Art.

The earliest picture I know of is one by Domenichino, in which St. Barthol-omew "ecclesiam B. M. V. ædificari jubet; et columna decidens Monachi ejus discipuli jussu sistitur." The saint stands in the center of the picture examining a plan through a pair of pince-nez.—Notes and Queries.

Determined to Succeed.

Wadley—You have had a good deal of trouble getting Miss Goldust to accept you, haven't you?

Dudely—Yes; but my last scheme can't fail to succeed. I sent her two photographs of myself, and you know two negatives always make an affirmative.—America.

CIGARS THAT WERE CIGARS.

He Knew What They Were Because He Raised and Made Them Himself.

He was the conductor of a milk train on the Erie railroad, and he sat on a can at luncheon hour smoking in a reminiscent mood.

"Did you ever roll a cigar?" he asked the brakeman.

"Can't say I did," answered that worthy, spearing a piece of corned beef from his dinner pail with a case knife.

"I have," said the conductor. "I had a farm up country, and a man says to me, 'Hank, here's a little terbacker seed. See what you can do with it. And when it sprouts look out how you weed it, because terbacker looks terribly like mullein.' So I planted the seed, and when the plants got high enough I transplanted most of 'em, and every night I'd go out and spade around and water the plants and pile on the fertilizer. I never saw anything grow the way them terbacker plants did. I told the feller that gave me the seed how the plants was growin', and he came over to get some sprouts. He looked at the plants rather queer, felt the leaves and says he, 'Hank, yer terbacker 'll make fine mullein stalks.' And blamed if I hadn't been diggin' and waterin' a whole mullein patch.

"Well, sir, he give me some more seed, and I raised that terbacker and cut it. There was a woman lived near me that used to work in a cigar factory, so I got her to show me how to roll cigars, and then I went to work. I reckon the first cigar I made had enough terbacker in it to make five, and when I lit it I braced my feet agin the mantelpiece and pulled till I thought I'd bust. I had to bore that cigar with a gimlet before it would go, but after a while I got the hang of rolling, and I'd make up a boxful at a time. I tell you they was men's cigars. I never see anything since like the strength of 'em. The way they'd burn, too, was a caution. The light would wind all around one of them cigars like a cowpath, and you never knew how much smoke you had left.

"I used to go out with a pocketful and give 'em away, but I never seed a feller try one but once. I was down at the station one Sunday afternoon. We was sittin' in a milk car smokin', and a young feller came along I knew. He had on a brand new suit, and he wouldn't sit down on a milk can for fear of a grease spot. I offered him one of my cigars, and he lit up. Just about the fifth puff that feller sat down on a milk can as slick as could be; didn't mind the grease at all, and when he finished half an inch blamed if he didn't throw that cigar away, forget all about his new clothes, and plump right down in a heap on the dirty floor, with a face on him as white as the milk in a can. Before that young feller went home we thought he'd throw up his feet."

"I tell you," said the conductor thoughtfully, "them cigars was hummers."

"Didn't the smoke smell bad?" inquired the brakeman with much interest.

The conductor knocked the ashes out of his pipe and waved the engineer to start up. "Well," he replied diplomatically, "I didn't mind it."—New York Tribune.

Infection in Chewing Gum.

The practice of chewing gum has become very widespread. It is not a very elegant habit, to many it is positively repulsive, and there are sources of danger, too, that should not be overlooked. A case in point was related to us a few days ago. Diphtheria broke out in a family in East Des Moines. After the child had recovered, the clothing and all the exposed articles fully disinfected, the parents, with the convalescent child, visited some relatives in the country. The indispensable chewing gum, like Satan, went also—in the mouth of the little child. Prompted by generosity it allowed its country cousins—two children—to chew the gum previously chewed by the visiting child. In three or four days, without any other known source of infection than the chewing gum, the two children were simultaneously stricken down with diphtheria in a most serious form.—Exchange.

The Average Man's Taste.

As a rule the ingenious woman is much admired and sought after by the opposite sex. The average man cannot stand a woman who will wear her dress buttoned in the back, a la Kate Greenaway. He may condescend to talk to a woman dressed like a guy, but he will never, never take her out. The average man may call a dress a gown and mistake satin for silk and silk for satin, but his ideas on woman's dress are far more significant than many people suppose. He dislikes anything approaching the masculine in woman's dress, and a cardinal point in his belief is that the bodice of a gown should be of some soft material—never a shirt front and never beaded.—New York Press.

Twenty Dollars for Smith's Name.

Henry Smith, a drummer from the flats of Jersey, wrote his name on one of the outside windows in the top of the Washington monument. Officer James B. Evans, who is stationed at the monument, promptly arrested him, and Mr. Smith forfeited $20 collateral when the case was called in the police court a few hours later.—Washington Star.

Their Future Secure.

She—Come, get up, you silly fellow, and tell me how we are to live; we cannot live on love, you know.

He—No, but we can live on my love's father.—Chatter.

A Kiss for a Blow.

"I took one of your pretty young ladies for a drive on Wednesday," said a traveling man at the Windsor. "The dust was blowing a cloud and covered us up completely. I noticed that her nose was twitching and that her eyes were full of dust, and she nervously felt in her pocket, but seemed not to find what she was after. After a while she sneezed a little birdie sneeze and said: 'Montague (that's me), will you kindly loan me your handkerchief? I find that I have lost mine in some stupid way.' Now I had just arrived from a week's trip, so my laundry was in a frightful state of decomposition and the one handkerchief that I had in my inside pocket was like a printer's towel—it would stand alone on one corner—so I blushed and told her I had lost mine. Things were getting rather serious for want of a kerchief, and she said, 'Dear me, I want to blow my nose awfully.'

"I bashfully informed her that perhaps I could offer a substitute, and she looked at me expectantly.

"'What?' she said.

"'A—a—kiss,' said I, desperately.

"'Sir! Take me home this instant.'

"I meekly turned my horse around. 'I was only offering to fulfil a biblica. injunction, Miss Rapphyno.'

"She looked at me relentlessly and coldly said:

"'How so?'

"'A kiss for a blow,' I said, meaningly, trying to smile. She blossomed out again in a minute.

"'I guess we needn't go home,' she said."—Denver News.

"Hurrah!"

What was the origin of the exclamation "hurrah?" There are few words still in use which can boast such a remote and widely extended prevalence as this. It is one of those interjections in which sound so echoes sense that men seem to have adopted it almost instinctively. In India and Ceylon the mahouts and attendants of baggage elephants cheer them along by a perpetual repetition of "Hur-re-re! Hur-re-re!" The Arabs and camel drivers in Turkey, Palestine and Egypt encourage their animals to speed by shouting "Arre, ar-re!"

The Moors in Spain drive their mules and horses with cries of "Arre!" In France the sportsman excites his hounds by his shouts of "Har-re, har-re!" The herdsmen of Ireland and Scotland shout "Hurrish! Hurrish!" to the stock they are driving. It is evidently an exclamation common to many nations, and is probably a corruption of "Turaie" (Thor aid), a battle cry of the ancient Norsemen, who called upon Thor, the god of thunder, to aid them in their strifes.—St. Louis Republic.

Forests of Europe and Africa.

"Since I have made my map," said Explorer Henry Stanley in an address to the Royal Geographical society, "I have taken the trouble to measure the extent of the area covered by this forest, and I find it to be something like 224,000,000 acres; and if we allow each tree thirty feet around for sufficient space, and only forty-eight trees to the acre, we have the colossal figure of 10,752,000,000 as the total number, and if we calculate the plants and saplings of the impenetrable undergrowth we shall be among the incalculable billions."

The forests of Europe, according to a recent report of one of the state foresters of Prussia, cover the following areas: Germany, 34,596,000 acres; Russia, 494,228,000 acres; Austria-Hungary, 46,951,700 acres; Sweden, 42,000,000 acres; France, 22,240,000 acres; Spain, 19,709,000 acres; Italy, 9,884,570 acres, and England, 2,471,000 acres.

Men Like to Give.

"Much obliged. Yes; don't care if I do," responded the close fisted man of our set as I asked him to help on a new wing to the orphan asylum where my wife was a directress. As I turned the corner I whipped the book out of my overcoat pocket, and stuck it under the nose of the most benevolent man in our crowd. "Well, well," he gasped. "I wouldn't have asked him, though. I should have expected to get a slap in the face, and I would rather have paid the $1,000 he has put down out of my own pocket than to have risked insult in asking him."

"Yes, and that is your constant mistake," I rejoined. "That is how you have earned your name for generosity. You give rather than ask. But I assure you that other men like to be asked. Men are better than they seem."—New York Weekly.

Look Out for Cheese.

A Virginia artillery company has been using cheeses in target practice, and it was shown that one of the cheeses fired against an earthen breastwork penetrated two feet further than a solid iron ball. They carry at point blank range farther than shot or shell. Look out for cheese rinds in the next war.—Detroit Free Press.

The cars on the Jungfrau railway have movable flaps, which may be expanded by the guard until they nearly touch the tunnel lining. In this way the car becomes a kind of piston, acting in the tunnel as a cyclinder, and the air acts as an automatic brake to check the speed of the descending car.

The carpet product of Smyrna, says the French consul, reaches 4,000,000 francs or about $800,000. There are three centers of manufacture—Ouchak, Koula and Ghiordes—where carpets of various dimensions are made, but the same processes are in vogue in them all.

THE FIRE-BUGS.

It is rumored about town that the fire-bugs who have been the cause of the numerous incendiary fires in Sonoma the past eighteen months are known to the authorities. If this be true the offenders should no longer be screened. They should be arrested and prosecuted to the full extent of the law. There has been a woeful lack of administration of justice to wrong-doers in this community of late years, so much so that no man can feel safe unless he goes "heeled" and puts an armed guard around his house at night to protect it from the incendiary's torch. This is a sad admission to make, but nevertheless it is a fact which is staring every law-abiding citizen in this community in the face. To a certain extent our citizens, not our officers, are responsible for this state of affairs. It has been the rule and not the exception for our citizens when an offender is arrested to fail to uphold the officer openly for fear of offending some one.

Here in Sonoma an officer is thrown almost entirely upon his own resources and should the arrested party, no matter how plain his guilt may be, happen to possess a few influential friends, he is turned loose to prey upon the community again while the officer receives little praise and no end of abuse for doing his duty.

The numerous incendiary fires of late, however, has alarmed every man, woman and child in Sonoma, and no one feels safe. This feeling has commenced to assume shape. Our citizens are now prepared to stand by the officers first, last and all the time. Therefore let them do their duty no matter where the lightning may strike to the end that these incendiary fires be stopped and that Sonoma be not disgraced by the presence of Judge Lynch.

Recommends S. S. S. as a Spring Tonic.

I take pleasure in recommending Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) as a Blood purifier, and general tonic. It has no equal for toning up the system, purifying the blood, and bracing up the flagging energies in the spring. Three bottles of this wonderful medicine made a new man of me.

Scrofula Cured.

Mr. S. I. BROOKS of Monticello, Ga., writes: When the best physicians failed to cure a case of Scrofula of two years' standing, a few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) did the work. Therefore I do not hesitate to pronounce S. S. S. the best blood purifier in the land. I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering from impure blood.

GRAPE-DRYING.

More Popular this Season than Pressing--Shipments to France--An Early Vintage.

The first car of dried wine grapes of the season, which started East yesterday, is but the vanguard of the many cars to follow before the vintage season closes. Drying grapes is the popular thing, and a good thing it promises to be. It insures less wine being made and a consequent increased price for both old and new wine, and it gives the grape-grower ready money and more than he could get from local winemakers. From $9 to $12 a ton is the ruling price at which contract are now being made in the upper valleys for ordinary varieties, such as Zinfandel, Chasselas and Reisling. The carload of dried grapes above-mentioned, Zinfandels, will bring the growers, the Capay Land Company, the equivalent of about $25 a ton for fresh grapes, calculating that over three tons are required to make one of dried grapes. The selling rate of this shipment of over 20,000 pounds was about 4 cents a pound. An experiment made in the drying process proved that the grapes from an ordinary picking box filled two drying trays; but five well-filled trays were required to fill the same box with dried grapes. In that section, which has this year led the way in shipments, grape-picking began the first part of August.

It is understood that this first lot of dried grapes is destined for France, to be made into cheap wine. The wine from these plebian Zinfandels, from commonplace Yolo county, may very likely return to the cellars of American epicures, resplendent in the label and historic glory of Chateau Yquem or Lafitte. In times past the dried grape, known commercially as the Zante currant, has been used largely for this class of foreign wines. It is said that much of the dried grape product of California this year will help "stretch" the famed wines of Ohio and the Lake Erie islands. If this is true, California grape growers will experience the peculiar pleasure of aiding competetion against their own wine product.—Bulletin.

Home for Feeble-Minded.

W. C. Good & Co., of Santa Rosa, have just completed the laying of 8,000 feet of water pipe on the grounds of the Home for Feeble Minded Children, now in course of erection near Glen Ellen. Of this, 5,600 feet connects an ever-running spring, the source of water supply, with the reservoir, which it is estimated will hold nearly 1,000,000 gallons, when completed. It is to be built of stone and cement, and is situated about 200 feet in elevation above the buildings, thus giving ample force for all purposes. The remainder of the pipe is used in conveying water to various parts of the grounds. The foundation of the edifice is nearly completed. Contractor McElroy has a large force of men engaged in burning brick for the superstructure at the brick yards near Guerneville. Two years is the time estimated to complete the buildings, which will contain one thousands rooms.—Democrat.

"Seeing is Believing."

And the best lamp ever made, like Aladdin's of old, a "wonderful lamp!" A lamp absolutely non-explosive and unbreakable, which gives a clear, soft, brilliant white light of 85 candle power! Purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light, more cheerful than either! That lamp is

"The Rochester."

And with it there is no smoke, no smell, no broken chimneys, no flickering, no sweating, no climbing up of the flame, no "tantrums" nor annoyance of any kind, and it never needs trimming. Its founts (oil reservoirs) being tough rolled seamless brass, with central draft, it is absolutely unbreakable, and as safe as a tallow candle.

Only five years old, and over two million of these lamps in use. It must be a GOOD lamp to make such a telling success. Indeed it is, for lamps may come and lamps may go, but the "Rochester" shines on forever! We make over 2,000 artistic varieties,—Hanging and Table Lamps, Banquet, Study, Vase and Piano Lamps,—every kind, in Bronze, Porcelain, Brass, Nickel and Black Wrought Iron.

Ask the lamp dealer for it. Look for the trade-mark stamp: "THE ROCHESTER." Take Care! There is Danger

In allowing inactivity of the kidneys to grow through neglect. The deadly shoals of Bright's disease and diabetes will wreck the goodly bark of health if it is allowed to drift rudderless upon them. The bladder, too, if inactive, and judicious medication does not speedily direct the helm toward the port of safety, will be whelmed by the quicksand of disease. In selecting a diuretic, let your choice fall upon Hostteter's Stomach Bitters, which stimulates the renal organs without irritating and exciting them, two effects to be apprehended from the unmedicated stimuli largely resorted to. These have a tendency to react prejudicially. The Bitters invigorate the kidneys and bladder, in common with the nerves and the digestive organs, and so afford lasting aid. It also affords dual assistance in preventing and curing intermittent and remittent fever. Biliousness, constipation and rheumatism it also subjugates.

E. P. Evans, proprietor of the Cypress Hill Cemetery Works, Petaluma, was in town several ways this week. Those of our people who desire headstones and monuments erected over their beloved dead can save trouble and expense by sending their orders to Evans Bros. This firm is cheerfully recommended to the people of Sonoma Valley as being in a better position to do good work at less cost than any other marble firm in the county.

On Sunday last as L. Orsy was driving his carriage, in which were seated three ladies, along Napa street, the team became frightened at a couple of dogs and became unmanageable. When nearly opposite the Union Hotel the carriage was just on the point of tipping over when parties standing on the sidewalk came to the rescue and securing the animals, prevented what might have been a serious accident. Yelping curs on our streets have become quite a nuisance of late, and it is a wonder that they are not the cause of runaways every day in the week. The dog ordinance should be strictly enforced.

THE FRUIT DRYER.

It Will be Operated by Messrs. Cassidy and Weyl.

At last the agitation for a fruit dryer in Sonoma in these columns has borne fruit. Henry Weyl of this place, seeing the benefits that would accure to town and valley by the establishment of such an enterprise, has entered into a copartnership with the Messrs. Cassidy of Petaluma, with the result that four driers will immediately be erected on First-street West, in the vicinity of the railroad depot. The furnaces will arrive from San Francisco today and the work of erecting the driers will be commenced immediately. A large quantity of apples, which have already been purchased in this valley, will be handled first. The starting of this enterprise is but the forerunner of what may turn out to be one of the largest canning and fruit drying establishments in the State.

Narrow Escape from Being Killed.

Yesterday morning about nine o'clock a scaffolding in front of the new bank building suddenly gave away, precipitating a helper named Geo. Spanring to the sidewalk below, a distance of 16 feet. His escape from being crushed to death by the heavy timbers of the falling scaffolding was most miraculous. On the outer side of the walk is a pile of lumber several feet high. One of the falling timbers fell directly across the sidewalk, one end resting on the lumber pile and the other on the inner side of the walk. When he struck the ground Spanring fell beneath this timber which formed an arch over his prostrate form. On this arch, directly over Spanring, rested the balance of the falling timbers, which would undoubtedly have crushed the life out of him had they struck him. He luckily escaped with a few bruises and resumed work a short time after his wonderful escape.

More Artesian Water.

Another fine flowing artesian well has been struck on J. E. Poppe'e lot, back of his winery. This well is almost the equal of the Aguillon, mention of which was made in these columns two weeks ago.

We visited Santa Rosa this week and for the first time met Judge Crawford, one of the Republican nominees for Superior Judge. He is a genial gentleman of unquestioned legal ability. We all know Judge Dougherty and feel confident that he will be elected. Judge Crawford if you could meet him would impress equally as favorably. In both these we have good and strong candidates for the Superior bench.—Petaluma Argus.

Mrs. L. Walker, D. D. G. P. of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, installed the officers of Juanita Parlor, No. 20, last Wednesday evening. After the installation ceremonies light refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was passed by the members present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Moore have reopened the Union Hotel.

On Friday evening of last week Union Hall was crowded with an appreciative audience who listened with marked attention to the excellent programme presented by Mrs. J. P. Weems for the benefit of the M. E. church. The fore part of the evening's entertainment was given up to the introduction of six beautiful tableaux, recitations, songs and instrumental music. Then came an intermission of twenty minutes, during which time the ice cream and coffee booths were well patronized. Following the intermission came the shadow pantomimes, which were well executed. J. H. Madison had charge of this part of the entertainment. It was quite late when the audience dispersed well pleased with the evening's pleasure.

Young America.

One hundred and thirty-eight pupils are attending the public school at this place. Six of these are from adjoining districts, one from Glen Ellen and one from Guerneville. The two latter are here to take the Grammar School course.

Yesterday was class day for pupils of the eighth grade, who entertained their friends with a very creditable literary and musical program. The class song, with home-made words, the harmonica duet, "Blue Beard's Wife" and "Columbia" were especially good, while the two farces were rendered in a manner that would have done credit to professionals.

The Watson Literary Society is flourishing. Robert Poppe and Dr. W. K. Vance have kindly consented to deliver a lecture before the society in the near future.

The base-ball spirits of the scholars raises with the thermometer, being just now at fever heat. Even the girls have developed a surprising affection for the national game. If you don't think so just peep over into the vacant lot behind the school house at recess time.

The following is the roll of honor for the first month of this school year. It will be noticed that by a recent order of the County Board of Education the first grade is now the pupils of the first school year, hence the eighth is now the highest of the grammar grades instead of the first of the primary as formerly:

We took a look at the new wine press put in last week at Wildwood. It is as fine a press as we ever saw. It has a pressure of seventy-five tons and cost $900.

Evans Lewis, the champion wrestler, was in town last week accompanied by Tom McInerney. Mr. Lewis is a fine looking man and from his appearance and conversation one would never take him for a sporting man.

Last Sunday morning when Old Sol took his first peep into the valley of Los Guilicos he saw three desperate looking men armed to the teeth with knife, rifle and belts of cartridges slowly wending their way along a mountain road as cautious as so many highwaymen. They had left the fourth man, also heavily armed, to guard the rear. These men were out on a deer hunt, and hunt they did from daylight till dark but were doomed to disappointment for they got no meat. But had it not been for Bill (that is not his name, only a nickname) while awaiting on his stand to shoot the dear when it came along, throwing himself into the arms of Morpheus, they would have had meat, for when Bill started to snoring the hills trembled as if shaken by an earthquake. The dogs started the game, and away bounded the beautiful animal. At the sharp report of a rifle the graceful animal fell. "Good shot," says Jack. "Look," says Joe, "what is the matter with Bill," and on looking, Bill was seen rubbing his eyes with one hand and holding his gun in the other and prancing like a young colt. On going to him no game was to be found, but on examination it was found that just as John fired the animal stumbled over Bill's prostrate body. It again arose to its feet and darted into the brush, and so they had no meat after all. As Bill is a prominent member of the Pool Club he will be reported at the next meeting and made to deposit fifty cents with the treasurer for the benefit of its members.

A GREEN COUNTRY BOY.

South Los Guilicos, Aug. 27, 1890.

Too Much "Annie Rooney."

Those of the INDEX-TRIBUNE readers, and they are legion, who have suffered in silence ever since "Little Annie Rooney" made her appearance in Sonoma, will no doubt appreciate the following from the Texas Siftings:

It doesn't matter where you go
In your ears it's ringing—
"She's my Annie, I'm her Jo"—
This Rooney business, don't you know,
That everybody's singing.
Everybody knows the thing;
Everybody's spooney—
Save the small majority
That's being driven luny.
Organs grind it in the street;
Mr. Dennis Mooney
Keeps awake upon his beat
To whistle "Annie Rooney."
In the woods the phebe birds
Sing the song without the words;
Cats upon the garden fence
Render it with stress intense;
Even young Babboony
Now and then removes his cane
From his mouth, adjusts his brain,
And, in accents full of pain,
Hums "Miss Awnnie Wooney."

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1890.

THE OLD ACTOR.

He plays the parts we watched him play of old
With supple and vibrant voice, with healthful frame;
But all his glory of skill has now grown cold
And tame.

The people are kind; their strenuous welcome cheers,
Yet rings as if 'twere echoing, loud or low,
The hardier plaudits that were given him years Ago.

His art of yore, both real and regnant then,
Courts now mere vacant mummery; and at whiles
Mirth wages fight with melancholy ? ? ? as where He smiles.

Or yet so tired he seems by claims that task
Those powers of portraiture, once firm and high.
Pathos but half screens humor, like a mask
Worn awry.

Ah, piteous trend of time, that thus may bring
Genius from grand achievement to grotesque—
Turn Falstaff tragic and round Hamlet fling
Burlesque!

—Edgar Fawcett in Cosmopolitan.

Helping the Injured in London.

Mr. J. C. Cole, husband of the famous contralto, was some time ago trying to break a colt to harness. The colt took fright and ran away, and Mr. Cole was thrown from the buckboard wagon, breaking a leg just above the ankle. He was picked up and sent home in a passing carriage. That evening seven men called at the Cole mansion and demanded money for the services they had rendered in carrying the injured man across the street to the carriage! One creature was willing to take tu'pence for his services; he had picked up Mr. Cole's hat. Another man wanted three ha'pence for having called the carriage. All these fellows said they wouldn't have volunteered their services if they hadn't expected to be paid therefor. This is a fair illustration of the spirit that obtains in London, and I am told it prevails throughout England.—Eugene Field's Letter in Chicago News.

Justice Waiting Outside.

Dr. Tanner tells a story on a circus follower whom he met on his travels in the past. The "grafter" in question was arrested for stealing a silver watch from a canvasman, and was duly tried before a justice of the peace and acquitted. When the crowd had gone the magistrate saw the former prisoner still sitting furtively watching the door.

"Ah, my good man," said he, "the law has found you to be innocent. Why don't you go?"

"Go! go!" gasped the "grafter." "With that big strong arm guy that I swiped the watch from laying for me outside? I guess not; I'll stay here as long as he does."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Toads as Sharpshooters.

The toad is the best marksman I ever saw shoot, and very rarely misses his mark. He has a tongue more than twice as long as his body. This he can shoot out like a dart or lance, and on its sharp point he impales his game. I have frequently attached a fly by means of mucilage to the end of a stick and brought it within seven or eight inches of the nose of one of my toads. He would wink one of his large eyes, take aim, and in a second the fly was impaled on the point of his tongue. —Macon Telegraph.

Butter Made from Minerals.

A mineral oil, or rather butter, has been introduced as a lubricator by the Compagnie Francaise de Graisses Minerales Consistantes. It is stated to be free from acid, resin or drying oils, and does not alter with exposure to the air. Its melting point is 84 degs. Ci (183 degs. Fahrenheit), and it does not inflame at a lower temperature than 220 degs. C. While it resembles butter in color it is odorless and has no chemical action on metals.—English Mechanic.

New Use of the Spectroscope.

It is proposed to use the spectroscope to determine whether cesspools, stables, etc., drain into neighboring wells. A solution of carbonate or chloride of lithium is poured into the suspected sources of pollution in the neighborhood, and after a week or so the well water is examined spectroscopically for lithium, which can thus be detected even if the water holds in solution less than one pint in a million.—New York Telegram.

Worth gives as much thought to one of his wonderful gowns as a poet would to a poem. His best creations are born at some quiet French or German spa, and the detail wrought out in his Paris house. He has a fine residence on the Rue de la Paix, where he can be seen only by the initiated. His constant companions at home are two little black dogs that are always at his heels.

The improvement of coffins has long been a favorite field for ingenuity. The latest idea is to have the name plate in the form of a scroll. At the top the scroll turns into a hollow cylinder with a cap which can be unscrewed. This cylinder is intended for the preservation of any record which may be inclosed in it at the time of burial.

Saginaw, Mich., has a family which lives in a shed 12 by 16 feet in area. The family consists of father, mother, three children, three horses, two cows, two goats, six dogs, a flock of pigeons and six cages of singing birds. A bale of hay separates the so called brute portion of the family from the rest.

Any book of poems which has the word "tyrant" in it cannot pass the Russian frontier. The czar thinks it a direct hit at him. An English book was lately tabooed because it had the sentence, "God's free air." All the air in Russia belongs to royalty.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"The Old Oaken Bucket,
The Iron-bound Bucket,
The Moss-covered Bucket,"

is very likely the one that has conveyed poisons to your system from some old well, whose waters have become contaminated from sewers, vaults, or percolations from the soil. To eradicate these poisons from the system and save yourself a spell of malarial, typhoid or bilious fever, and to keep the liver, kidneys and lungs in a healthy and vigorous condition, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It arouses all the excretory organs into activity, thereby cleansing and purifying the system, freeing it from all manner of blood-poisons, no matter from what cause they have arisen. All diseases originating from a torpid or deranged liver, or from impure blood, yield to its wonderful curative properties. It regulates the stomach and bowels, promotes the appetite and digestion, and cures Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," and Chronic Diarrhea. Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands and Tumors disappear under its use.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood and liver medicine, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of its benefiting or curing in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly returned.
